July 2022: What's On Your Bucket List?

We Grow Agile Leaders Who Grow Purpose-Driven Firms

Hello Subscriber,

Do you have a Bucket List - - - those things you want to do/experience before you 'kick the bucket'? I don't have a written one, but I have a few things in my head. If I win the lottery, an around-the-world cruise would be first thing on my list. Of course, that means I need to actually buy a ticket occasionally!

For years, I've said that I wanted to see a real glacier before they all melt due to climate change. However, we get enough cold weather in Chicago - I don't need to be cold on my vacation too!

Ironically, my child selected an Alaska cruise for a graduation gift, allowing me to cross off THREE bucket list items in the process:

1. I saw a glacier
2. I loved my whale (and eagle and bear and sea creatures) sightings
3. I SKYDIVED!!!

Ok, I didn't jump out of an actual plane and I never left the cruise ship. Still, here's proof:

I also got to experience being pulled in a cart by real Iditarod sled dogs! While that was never on my bucket list per se, it was a blast. Boy, can they run - and they're SO excited about doing it that they jump vertically in the air impatiently waiting for you to get your butt in the cart.

What is on YOUR "someday" list? Between global pandemics and constant mass shootings, we're reminded daily that tomorrow isn't guaranteed.

Everyday we help leaders achieve their business goals, yet we talk about the personal side too. The fun, energy and fulfillment that comes from these values-rich events is absolutely necessary for leadership resilience and empowering our progress on ALL our goals.

If you want some of that in your life, just hit reply and tell me what's on your list. I guarantee someone on my team can help you make it a reality - - and you won't have to jump out of a plane, unless you really want to!

Hope you're savoring the summer -
