We Grow Agile Leaders Who Grow Purpose-Driven Firms

November 2018

Dear Subscriber,

St. Therese of Lisieux said “Everything is a grace...” She felt that way no matter what the difficulty, burden, illness or contradiction. 2 recent examples have driven this home for me.

A fast-growing breast cancer was found while a family member was having a CT scan for another issue. After several scary weeks, it was removed successfully and it appears no additional treatment will be needed. What would the outcome have been if not for the original issue that necessitated the test? Grace.

Chrishon Lampley, founder of Love Corkscrew, spoke at the PWCC lunch this month. Bullied as the only black child in her school, she became a self-described “unicorn” instead of a victim— playing classical piano, appearing in plays and running track. Chrishon believes being an ‘oddball’ back then prepared her for her current career.

When a flood destroyed her business and led to personal bankruptcy, she realized that “your passion follows you, even when you’re not good at it. You find out it’s MORE than you!”. One of her former clients became her angel investor. Today she crafts her own private label wines which are carried by Target, Whole Foods and Marianos! She’s a licensed importer/exporter and in conversation to have her own show on CNBC. Grace and passion!

What would it be like to experience this upcoming holiday season with grace and passion? How can we detach from the “musts” and “shoulds” to be fully present for the events we are really passionate about? What will remind us to look for grace....even when stuck in traffic? Food for thought!

Happy holidays -
